

CAMUSO-2

R2 If uncontrolled, he will write as follows:

NR. 1 KUNSAM

(1) (2)

TEXT IN CAPITALS

(3)

9.1.52 (4)

JELGAVA

HERBERT

(5)

If controlled, he will write as follows:

z nr 1

(1)

no salutation
(2)

(4) 9.1.52
Jelgava

~~xxxxxx~~ handwritten text
(3)

Herberts
(5)

The control points are:

1. Period after the "NR" if uncontrolled, none if controlled.
2. "KUNSAM" ("Gentlemen") if uncontrolled, no salutation if controlled.
3. Text in CAPITALS if ~~xxxx~~ uncontrolled; handwriting if controlled.
4. Date ~~xxxxxxxxxx~~ and city in caps at lower left if uncontrolled; at upper right with city handwritten if controlled.
5. Signature "HERBERT" without "s" if uncontrolled; handwritten with "s" if controlled.

R4. If clean, CAMUSO-2 will write "j" with a large lower loop; if controlled, he will write as he normally does, with a long tail and small lower loop. (Note: Although this is as arranged by

[] It can be seen that this particular indicator will have limited application, since if he is uncontrolled he writes in CAPITALS and does not make a handwritten "J"; if controlled, he writes his normal handwriting in any case. If, for example, we received a handwritten letter we could only assume he was under control, even if the "j" had a large lower loop.)

RS. W/T challenges also apply. Since CAMUSO-2's use of W/T is not anticipated, he may use that form in his S/W text, and they are therefore repeated here:

I. Fixed Text:

A. The text of the first message will end with the phrase VILKSI GAUDA. This phrase will indicate that the agent is clean. All subsequent messages will end with this phrase unless he is challenged by the word LETINI. His reply to the challenge, if clean, will be to change the position of VILESI GAUDA to the beginning of the text in his next message. The position of the phrase will then be at the beginning until challenged again, when the agent will move the phrase back to its original position. This process can go on ad infinitum.

B. The challenge LETINI is the Latvianized version of the German word "Letten". The case officer will use the Latvian word ~~xxxxxxx~~ LATVIESI when he has a clean question about Latvians. The word LETINI will never occur in a message except as a challenge.

C. The fixed phrase VIOKSI GAUDA is an intentional misspelling of the phrase VILKI GAUDO, which means "the wolves are crying."

D. ~~The~~ CAMUSO-2 can indicate control by:

- (1) Sending the correct spelling of VILKI GAUDO.
- (2) Refusing to respond to the case officer's challenge.
- (3) By intentionally misplacing the fixed phrase.

II. Key Word.

Any mention of the word KARAVIRS, which can appear ~~anywhere~~ anywhere in a message from the Base to the Field, will be considered a challenge to the agent. If the agent is free from control, he will answer with nonsense. If he is controlled, he will answer with a sensible answer.

If the Base should want to ask a question about the challenge word without challenging, they will use the word ZALDATS instead of KARAVIRS.

The word KARAVIRS will never be used in any message from the Base to the Field unless it is intended as a challenge.

III. Alternate word. Any mention of the word NOSPERT, which can appear anywhere in a message from the Base to the Field, will be considered a challenge to the agent. If the agent is free from control, he will answer with nonsense. If he is controlled, he will answer with a sensible answer.

If the Base should want to ask a question about the challenge word without challenging, they will use the word NOZAGT instead of NOSPERT.

The word NOZAGT will never be used in any message from Base to Field unless it is intended as a challenge.

IV. Give-away Word. Any mention of the word LAMPA, which appears anywhere in a message from Base to Field, will be considered a challenge to the agent. If the agent is free from control, he will answer with nonsense. If he is controlled, he will answer with a sensible answer.

If the Base should want to ask a question about the challenge word without challenging, they will use the word SPULDZE instead of LAMPA.

The word LAMPA will never be used in any message from the Base to the Field unless it is intended as a challenge.
